What is Armando Juntas el Territorio?

Armando Juntas el Territorio is a cultural and community gathering promoted by Psimiente. Its second edition brings together young people, collectives, artists and citizens to reflect on the territory through culture, creativity and participation. The initiative originated within the creative and associative youth community of Cáceres and Extremadura, while maintaining a strong intergenerational approach.

Part of Generación 31

The initiative is part of Generación 31, the Cáceres 2031 programme designed to actively involve young people in building the city's European Capital of Culture candidacy. Armando Juntas el Territorio extends this approach beyond the classroom, with young people organising activities, creating projects and connecting associations, neighbourhoods and cultural spaces.

Main objectives

The project aims to create space for young people's voices and creativity, strengthen networks between emerging initiatives and community organisations, explore local challenges through culture and collective action, and encourage encounters between generations and neighbourhoods. It also seeks to create connections that can continue beyond the four-day event. Dossier_Armando_Juntas_el_Terri...

Programme

The four-day programme includes photography, music, film, performance, poetry, collective mapping, workshops, conversations and community gatherings. Activities begin at the Ateneo before moving towards AldeaLab and Aldea Moret, including a street parade, community meals, a conversation with social and cultural collectives, workshops and a guided walk through the neighbourhood.

Connection with Cáceres 2031

The initiative connects with Cáceres 2031's concept of Transcultura by creating links between generations, disciplines and different parts of the city. The journey from the city centre towards Aldea Moret also reflects one of the ideas behind the bid: culture as a shared path capable of bringing together places and people who might not otherwise meet. Background

The first edition of Armando Juntas el Territorio took place in May 2025 and brought together around 200 people, helping to build new relationships between youth collectives, cultural initiatives and citizens. Key message

Generación 31 is based on the idea that young people should not have to wait until 2031 to play an active role in Cáceres' cultural project. Armando Juntas el Territorio puts this into practice through young people who are already creating, organising, participating and building connections across the city.
